FEMINISM MOVEMENT, CAUSE AND EFFECT, DISCUSSED BY CLUB WOMEN

THE feminism movement, its causes its meaning and the regular body of high mindications in the expected were disconnected in three papers given by Mrs. Charles A. Kinkel from Mrs. T. C. Phillips. Wednesday afternoon at the secting of the current events and literature department of the Woman's clieb, held in the high school auditorium. Mrs. Kohlberg presented the causes that have brought should be indicated the feminism movement. Mrs. Kinkel discussed the extremes, both of the advocates and the opponents of the movement, and Mrs. T. C. Phillips. Wednesday against feminism are women's physical limitations; women's emotional limitations; women's purely primitive moral faculties, women's purely primitive moral faculties, women's economic and executive inability; ital her object is the limitation and subjugation of the male limitation and subjugation of the male sex. These do not need reply, as they all have been proved false, but the work of the stream of the program, discounsed the task at hand.

In introducing the subject, Mrs. Phillips said that it was in like with the work of the club for this year in studying the big modern morements. saits to be expected were discussed in three papers given by Mrs.

was the chairman of the brogram, discomed the task at hand.

In introducing the subject, Mrs. Phillips said that it was in the with the work of the club for this year in studying the big modern movements that were affecting the present day.

Mayement Dates From Early Times.

Mrs. Kehlberg in discussing the causes of woman's unrest said the cry of woman for rights of apportunity and consideration equal with the men, dated back to early times. She said the feminiand movement was for equal opportunity for women as for men in every line of human activity, equal freedom for women, equal justice for women, equal fair play for women as men, equal tissuanisp for women men, equal tissuanisp for women with men, and equal pay for women doing the game work as men.

Mrs. Kohlberg said: "In former times."

men, and cound pay for women doing the same work as men.

Lister Families No Longer Demanded.

Mrs. Kohlberg mid: "In former times the whole productive life of weman was given to child bearing and child rearing. Even in our grandmothers' times, herse families were the rule. Through our modern civilization the conditions have been sreatly altered. The duty of the primitive woman to produce many children is not now demanded by the race, as the question of importance now it better born children sand parents of intelligenes and conscilentiousness hesitate at bringing colluters into the world if they do not see their way to properly educate and equip the child for life. The complexities that surround our modern life make it a difficult matter now to even the readustment to life. The very physiological differences between metals of all the races and all classes for the readustment to life. The very physiological differences between metals and women make women all the more valuable as the co-worker with man."

Extremes of Feminum.

Mrs. Churies A. Kinkel, in discussing the extremes, said. "That there is a freat tide of human progress called feminism. Freshitable, legitimate and fraught with great good to the human race, has been proved. I would define this world-wide movement as the expension of woman's lesitimate familian is that which always greets anything new or strange. Anything strange is always considered extreme, whereas the creation of new forms and ideals is a sign of vitality and growth of the beneficent force of evolution. No voman of today is so ultra conservative, thus he has not granted that the femilian movement, many are not the results of the movement at all, but are falsely attributed to femilians by minir, illogical opponents. The extreme opponents are the militants and the femiliant movement of England became williants as the women of France at the women of France at

No Oversupply New.

In answering the charge of committed oversupply signing teminism, Mrs. W. R. Brown, Mrs. W. S. Vatentine, discovery field in which they have entered, making it increasingly difficult for men to undertake the maintenance of homes, has some temporary validity, but it also has its defence. What justified the conditions given until feeching the three was in the grivenance has already disappeared in those countries participating in the European war. There wenten have replaced men in every field of national life so that the men could be in the armies. Her every human and race function is brought into acretice. There will be no more seconomic oversupply in Europe, but there will he a residuatment of social and conomic conventions."

No Oversupply New.

Ars. W. R. Brown, Mrs. W. S. Vatentine, Mrs. Hell Hale, Mrs. O. A. Critchest talked of the conditions under which men, after the conditions under which men alone.

Mrs. S. J. Fennell criticised the average mother in her training of her children. She said that every mother from the time her and was a little boy devoted all her thought and energy to fitting him for his career in the business world, but that little of the proper education was given to fit the girl for her easeer as a wife, mother and homemaker.

Not a New Cry.

Mrs. T. C. Phillips, in talking on the tepic. "The Task at Hand," said: "Feminism is not a new cry; it is thousands of years old. Among the Egyptians 4060 years ago the condition of women was far superior in, many important respects than it is teday, but they gained it through a feminism movement similar to ours. Roman matrons at a later day had rights of property and person that we would be proud to have.
